Newsreader: And Tory leader David Cameron has insisted that Gordon Brown is kicked out of Downing Street after his latest incident.

Breaking news just in. The London Eye has been destroyed in a suspected terrorist attack. The police are appealing for witnesses who may have seen this attack and are looking for two youths who are seen running away at the time of the attack. Recent CCTV footage from the area sees the two youths in question stealing a red Vauxhall near to the London Eye. And now to get the full story I'll go over to our London correspondent, Dave Jenkins. Dave.

Dave Jenkins: Thanks Will. I'm now live at the scene of the suspected terrorist attack on the London Eye which killed many. The police are now appealing for two young youths to come forward after they were seen running away from the scene of the crime. These youths are believed to be called Spider and Jem and are from the local area and they say that they are vital to the investigation. Thanks, back to the studio.

Newsreader: We interrupt your normal programme this evening to bring you an update on the London terrorist attack. We'll now go over to our local correspondent Clive Sanderson to give you an update. Clive.

Clive Sanderson: Thanks Will. Havoc has been brought to this quaint English town. Suspected London Eye terrorists have claimed sanctuary in the church and are currently on the rooftop. The situation is obviously very dangerous. More updates are on the way.

Voiceover: Aah guys, he's gonna jump!

Jem: Get off there you silly sod. You'll break your neck!

Spider: Screams

Jem: Spider!
