1. BACKGROUND AND INTRODUCTION

The Community Justice (Scotland) Act 2016 puts a duty on Statutory Community Justice Partners to work together to produce a Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan that has regard to the National Strategy for Community Justice, the National Outcomes Performance and Improvement Plan (OPI) Framework; and the Local Outcomes Improvement Plan (LOIP) for that area. In preparing the plan, the Act requires partners to consult with Community Justice Scotland, and involve third sector partners, community bodies and other partners, including the private sector, as appropriate.

Community Justice means:

"The collection of individuals, agencies and services that work together to support manage and supervise people who have committed offences, from the point of arrest through prosecution, community disposal or custody and alternatives to these, until they are reintegrated into local communities"

The Angus Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan (ACJOIP) seeks to:

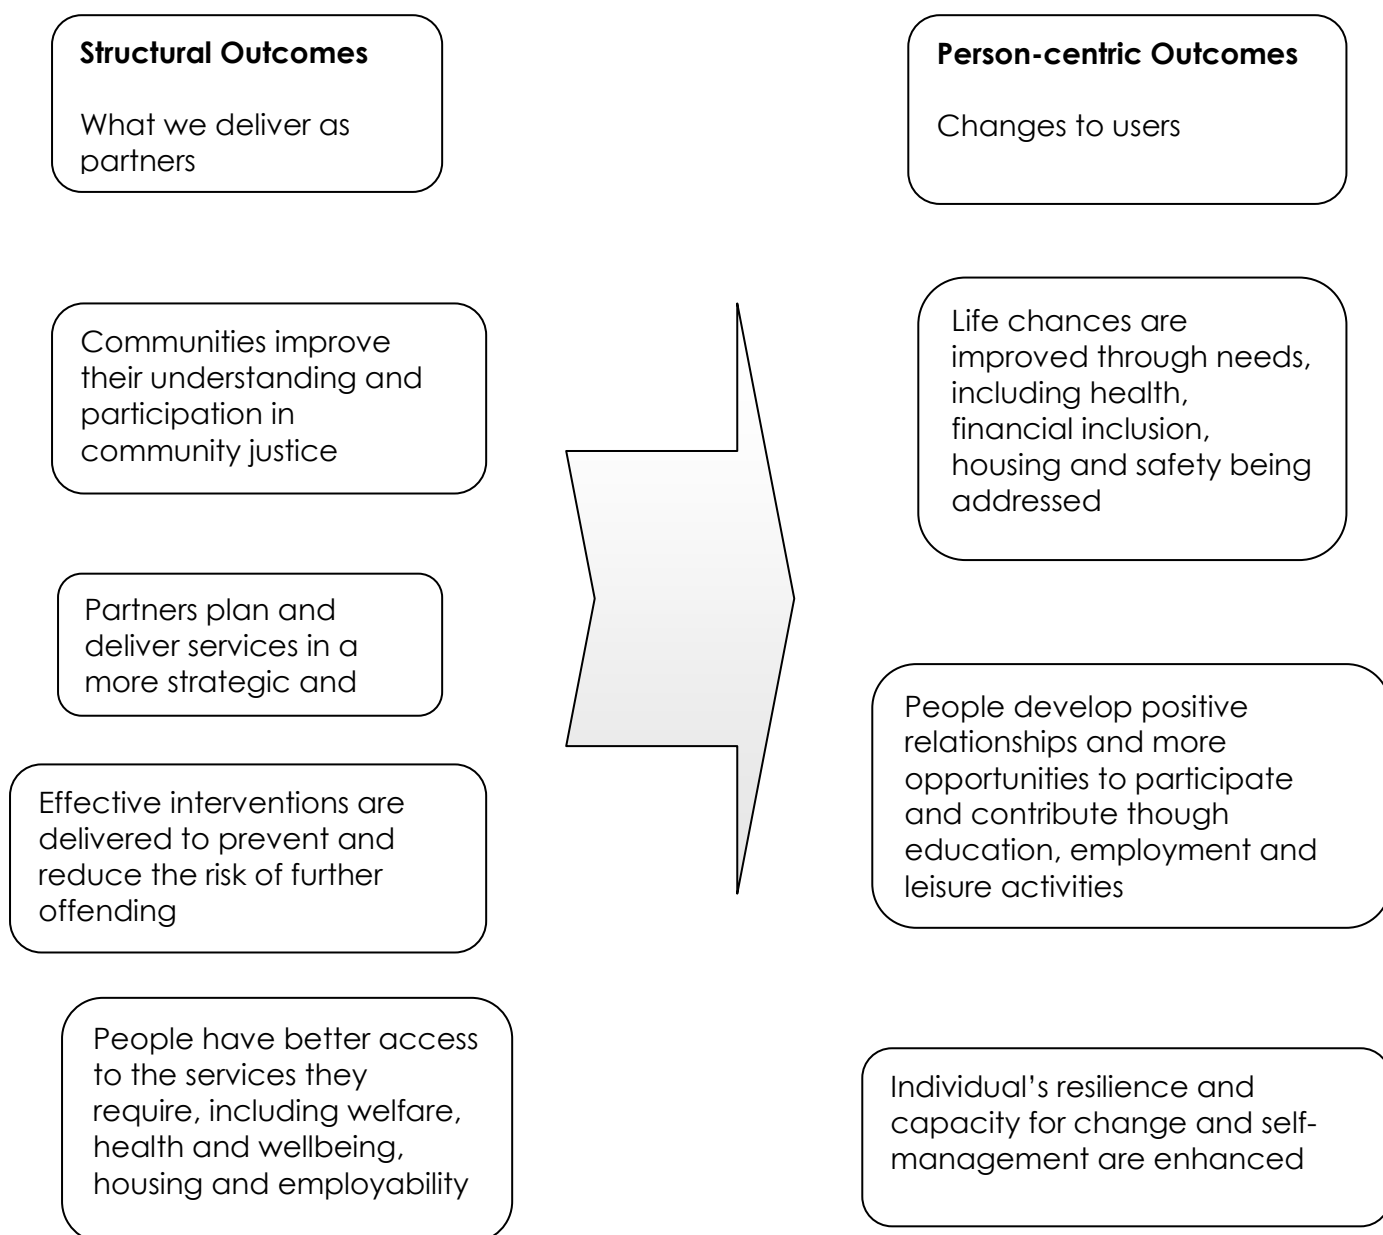

- Prevent and reduce further offending
- Safely and effectively manage and support those who have committed offences to reintegrate into local communities and realise their potential for the benefit of all citizens
- Shift the balance of community and custodial sentences, by increasing the use of community orders and reducing the use of short term custodial sentences
- Improve the arrangements for reintegrating offenders from custody into local communities

The evidence base for the Angus Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan is contained in the Angus Community Justice Profile, a summary of which is detailed in Section 3. The full Community Justice Profile can be found at (to be notified)

The Community Justice Profile provides a detailed data analysis which follows services users' journey through the Criminal Justice System, looking at the trends over time. The Profile also evaluates the views and experiences of those who have been involved in the Criminal Justice System, including people with convictions and their families, victims and witness of crime, and people living in local communities.

The Angus Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan takes account of the Scottish Government Guidance for local partners in the new Model for Community Justice (see <http://www.gov.scot/Publications/2016/11/4628>). The plan is based on an Angus interpretation of the priorities identified in the National Strategy for Community Justice (see <http://www.gov.scot/communityjusticestrategy>) which are summarised as follows:

National Community Justice Strategy Priorities

The indicators identified in the National Outcomes Performance Improvement Framework (see <http://www.gov.scot/Publications/2016/11/3701>) have been combined with a number of local measures and included to the Angus Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Delivery Plan.

2. ANGUS COMMUNITY JUSTICE PROFILE

2.1 Introduction

This Profile is an executive summary of the full Angus Community Justice Profile which can be found atThe profile is intended to support the transition from the Regional Community Justice Authorities to local Community Planning Partnerships. The analysis contained in the Profile has informed the Angus Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Delivery Plan. The Profile pulls together data from the full range of the statutory and non-statutory agencies involved in the Angus Community Justice Partnership.

2.2 Angus Demographics & Deprivation

Angus, while generally a prosperous and successful area of Scotland, contains pockets of relative deprivation linked to unemployment, low incomes, access to housing and services, and poorer health outcomes. The majority of the population live in the seven main towns and the areas of greatest relative deprivation are to be found in these towns – particularly Arbroath. Like many areas of Scotland, Angus faces the future with an ageing population and a smaller proportion of its residents of working age. Further details of the geography and demographics of Angus, together with fuller information on relative deprivation in the county can be found in the full Angus Community Justice Profile at XXX

2.3 Crime Levels & Trends

Crime levels – as recorded by Police Scotland – are falling in Scotland and Angus in particular. There was a 2% fall in recorded crime in Angus between 2014/15 and 2015/16. Despite this overall decrease, there has been an increase in the most serious violent crime. It must be noted, however, that despite this increase, serious violent crime in Angus remains rare and below recent peak levels experienced during 2007/08. Sexual crimes have also increased in recent years – linked to many historical offences reported in the wake of recent high profile cases. Volume crime such as vandalism and acquisitive crime have fallen within Angus in recent years. These figures show reductions in shoplifting, housebreaking and minor theft, while there have been increases in some types of fraud. Police Scotland data also includes proactive offences such as drugs possession, offensive weapon finds and traffic offences. Levels of these offences have been on an upward trend in recent years. This is dependent on proactive police activity driven by operational decisions and does not reflect an absolute increase in this type of offending.

2.4 Detection Rates

The most serious crimes (serious violence and sexual crimes) have the highest detection rates. This reflects the level of resource committed to these crimes and the availability of witnesses and physical evidence. Other crime types – such as vandalism – are much harder to detect as there is often little or no evidence or corroborating witnesses.

2.5 Domestic Abuse

A priority area both nationally and locally, incidents of domestic abuse and other domestic related incidents rose in recent years, peaking in 2013/14. Levels in the last two full reporting years have fallen. Domestic related crimes cover the full range of criminality with the most serious crime types thankfully rare. All partners within the Angus Community Justice Partnership are fully committed to work together to reduce levels of domestic abuse, protect and support victims and deal effectively with offenders.

2.6 Hate Crime

Hate crimes are those where the victim is targeted because of their religion, race, or other protected social characteristic. Within Angus, this sort of crime is very low and tends to take the form of more minor verbal abuse, as opposed to physical violence.

2.7 Alcohol & Crime

There is considerable evidence linking crime to the misuse of alcohol. Angus is no exception with levels of alcohol related crime (particularly violent crime) increasing in recent years.

2.8 Offender Profile

Nearly eight out of ten of all detected offenders in Angus are male, with younger men aged between 18 and 35 overly represented. This local analysis within Angus is consistent with academic research carried out at a national and international level over a number of years. Some of this research has looked at the relationship between crime, unemployment and relative poverty. In an Angus context, half of all offenders in recent years have been unemployed at the time of the criminal behaviour. Additionally, there is a strong suggestion of a link between offending behaviour and relative deprivation – 38% of all offenders live within the eight most deprived areas of Angus (as identified by the Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation).

2.9 Offending by Young People

The number of crimes committed by young people aged 16 or under increased in 2015/16 but is in line with historical levels. Crimes committed tend to be of a less serious nature with violent and sexual crimes very rare. As with offending in general, those responsible tend to be male with older teenagers (aged 13 to 16) the most common age grouping. In each of the seven Angus towns, a small number of prolific repeat offenders are found to be responsible for a significant proportion of crimes. These prolific offenders include some of our most vulnerable young people – including Looked after Children (LAC). Very often, offending behaviour by these young people takes place within a care setting, and not within the general community.

2.10 Victim Profile

The latest analysis from 2015/16 suggests that 55% of all crime victims are female, with 18 to 35 year olds the most represented. Male victims tend to be a little older. Over a third of all crime victims reside within the eight most deprived data-zones of Angus. This is a similar pattern as for offenders and would indicate that interventions against offenders are likely to benefit the victims in these areas also.

2.11 Community Disposals

Within Angus, 90% of all crimes where the alleged perpetrator is an adult, result in a report to the Procurator Fiscal (PF). The remaining 10% are dealt with by means of warnings or Fixed Penalty Notices (FPNs). It is less serious offences that are dealt with by these alternative means. Following a report to the PF, some cases may be dealt with directly by means of PF warnings, fines or referrals to treatment or support programmes. For those cases not suitable for direct measures by the PF, the courts will then determine an appropriate disposal and sentence. In many instances, the Criminal Justice Social Work Report (CJSWR) is an important tool to aid the courts in this process. The majority of subsequent disposals are non-custodial with a wide range of community based sentences available to the court. The most commonly used such sentence in Angus is the Community Payback Order (CPO) which typically involves the offender undertaking a programme of unpaid work (UPW) within the community – often with a requirement for supervision. The number of hours of UPW completed in Angus increased during 2015/16. Other available options open to the court included Structured Deferred Sentences (SDS) which allows offenders to focus on the underlying issues leading to their offending behaviour,

2.13 Custodial Trends

During the last year, the number of Angus residents in Scottish prisons has fluctuated between 90 and 110 – mostly within HMP Perth. Over 160 prisoners have been released back into Angus communities in the year to August 2016 – the latest available figures. 60% of these persons were released having served short periods of incarceration. Many of those sentenced to custodial sentences have dependent children. Further information on the age and gender breakdown of persons can be found in the full Angus Community Justice Profile by following this link –

2.14 Community Reintegration

Available reconviction rates for Angus include both custodial and community based disposals. While reconviction rates for Angus based offenders were historically above Scottish averages, the most recent figures show an improvement to below the national average. Further work is required to support the analysis of reconviction rates for community based disposals against custodial sentences, and between alternative community disposals.

2.15 Community Needs Assessment

To help inform the Angus Community Justice Profile and the Outcome Improvement Plan, an Angus Citizens Panel survey was undertaken. This was supplemented by focus groups. The survey and focus groups asked respondents their opinions and experiences of crime within Angus, their impressions of community based sentences, and the role community justice can have in reducing reoffending. Respondents were found to be most concerned about vandalism and other low level anti-social behaviour, housebreaking, and drug related crime. Respondents see improved security as the most effective way to reduce crime, but are also aware of how improving social and family relationships within local communities can also help preventing reoffending. Most respondents are aware of many of the available alternatives to a custodial sentence. While feelings were mixed on the adequacy of such sentences as a punishment, there was also an appreciation of how custodial sentences are not necessarily appropriate for less serious offences. Respondents were mostly unaware of any specific project in their own area that has benefited from the Unpaid Work programme. They felt that this work needs to be better publicised and that local communities should have more input in what type of projects are undertaken.

2.16 Future Development

A number of areas for future data collection and analysis have been identified in the Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan. This includes work around Scottish Prison Service (SPS) data currently subject of a consultation between the SPS and local Community Justice Partnerships. Work will also continue to assess the success of community based sentences in reducing reoffending – particularly how this compares to custodial sentences. This will form part of a wider exercise in developing how we measure and report on key indicators within the Outcomes Improvement Plan.

3. COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

The National Strategy for Community Justice emphasises the importance engaging and involving communities of geography and interest in the planning and delivery of community justice services. It recognises that there are considerable assets and strengths in communities that can be mobilised to address community justice concerns. The related performance framework asserts the degree to which the community understands and supports community justice services has a strong effect upon their overall effectiveness.

Within this context and the wider context for Community Planning as established through the Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015, there is a need to create effective processes for engaging Angus communities with community justice issues and service planning.

This will involve the creation of a community framework for community justice which will integrate with and build from existing community engagement arrangements for community planning at an Angus and locality levels. These existing arrangements, which have been utilised to some extent in the creation of this plan include:

- The Angus Citizens Panel
- A bi-annual citizen's survey
- Informal, street level, engagement with people in their own communities.
- Tenant Participation
- Engagement events in communities, including charrettes

Building an effective community engagement framework for community justice will involve adapting these, and other mechanisms to fully incorporate community justice concerns and services and creating new arrangements that are particular to community justice. All of this activity will be informed by the recently revised national Standards for Community Engagement and emerging research on what is effective in engaging people with community justice concerns and shifting thinking and action. The strategy will help to ensure that communities are:

<http://www.gov.scot/Topics/People/engage/NationalStandards/NationalStandards2016>

- Better informed of and more knowledgeable about community justice matters
- Actively engaged and influential in the development of strategy and design of services
- Supported and encouraged to play an active role in both the delivery of services and securing wider community support for community justice approaches that work

4. ANGUS COMMUNITY JUSTICE PREVENTION FRAMEWORK

“When preventative programmes are targeted at solving well researched problems and are strategically led and delivered, they can achieve positive outcomes for individuals, families and communities, reduce the financial burden imposed by the negative demand for services and provide a more cost effective use of the tax payers money” (Christie Commission Report 2011)

The Angus Community Justice Partnership will adopt the approach advocated by the Christie Commission, and in so doing so take action at an early stage to support those with convictions from re-offending and reduce the risks to themselves, their families and local communities. The Angus Community Justice Partnership will consider the Prevention Framework (see Appendix 1) in supporting the delivery of the Community Justice Outcome Improvement Plan. Examples of the different types of early intervention and prevention are detailed as follows:

Recovery Based Prevention

- Targeted education, skills, employability training
- Improved access to mental health/substance misuse services
- Preventing homelessness for those leaving custody
- Improved access to financial services/welfare rights advice
- Well developed "through the gate models" with SPS/CJ partners

Universal Prevention

- Media campaigns to improve community understanding/participation
- Work with communities to reduce re-offending
- Work with communities/staff to promote social inclusion
- Raise the profile of Unpaid Work in local communities

Targeted Prevention

- Diversion from prosecution
- Shift the balance of community/custodial sentences
- Further develop quality and range of targeted interventions
- Reduce number of short term prison sentences

Early Intervention

- Targeted evidence based early intervention
- Build family capacity to prevent re-offending
- Effective integration between youth and adult CJ Services
- Earlier intervention with low tariff offenders
- Diversion from the Criminal Justice System

5. GOVERNANCE AND ACCOUNTABILITY

The Angus Community Justice Partnership has been established to oversee the delivery of the objectives defined in the Community Justice Act. The Partnership will have the responsibility for the development, delivery, monitoring and evaluation and reporting on the ACJOI Delivery Plan. In fulfilling this role, the Partnership will:

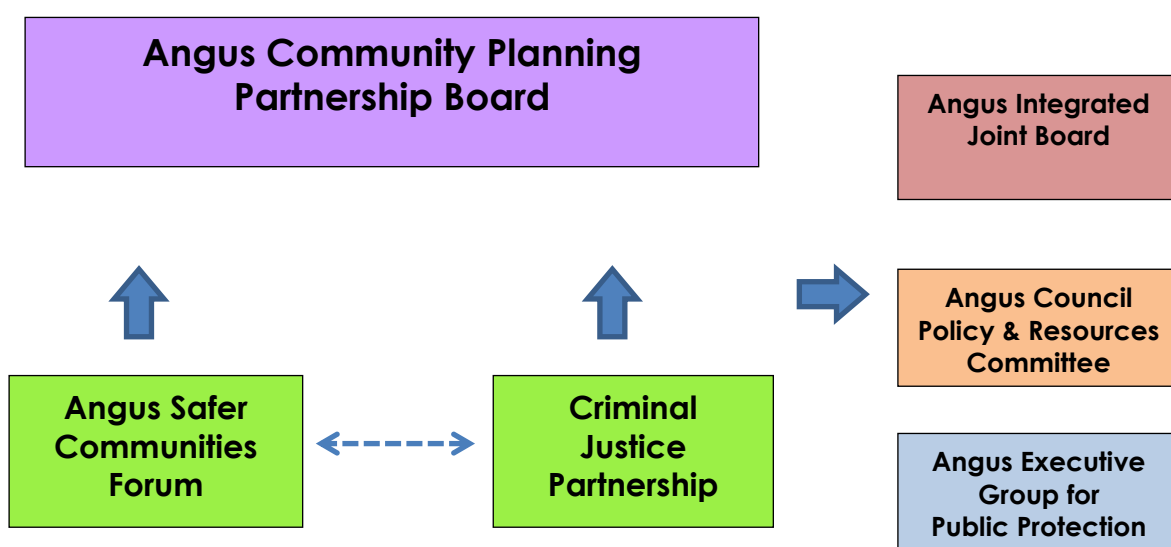

- Ensure that appropriate information and support are available to facilitate partnership working arrangements
- Maintain effective liaison with Community Justice Scotland and the Angus Community Planning Partnership
- Provide advice and guidance to the Angus Safer Communities Forum, the Executive Group for Public Protection and the Chief Social Work Officer on the commissioning, strategic direction and integration of the delivery of services to people with convictions.

- Provide advice and guidance as appropriate to other strategic groups and bodies within the CPP in developing and maintaining services aimed at reducing offending
- Prepare and agree plans and reports required by the Scottish Government, Angus Council and the Angus Community Planning Partnership, on the services and performance related to Community Justice
- Contribute to the development of the CPP Local Outcomes Improvement Plan (LOIP) and provide support and guidance on how the LOIP best incorporated community justice outcomes and performance indicators
- Ensure that all Community Justice Partners provide information on the relevant performance indicators as set out in the Scottish Government's Outcomes Performance Improvement Framework

The full terms of Reference for the Angus Community Justice Partnership can be found in Appendix 4, with the contact details for the Statutory Partners.

The Angus Community Justice Partnership will report to Community Justice Scotland, the Community Planning Partnership Board, Angus Council's Policy and Resources Committee and the Executive Group for Public Protection. The Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan has been approved by the Angus Community Planning Board on 27 March 2017, and will be presented to Angus Council's Policy & Resources Committee in May 2017, following the local elections.

The Community Justice Partnership accountability lines are shown below:

6. PERFORMANCE AND SELF EVALUATION FRAMEWORK

The performance indicators and measures contained in the Scottish Government's OPI Framework have been included in ACJOI Delivery Plan, with a number of local indicators.

An Integrated Performance and Self-Evaluation Framework has been created, based on the Scottish Government's OPI Framework and the Self-Evaluation Model produced by the Care Inspectorate, to enable baselines to be set, against which future performance will be measured.

Annual Performance reports will be produced by the Angus Community Justice Partnership and presented to Community Justice Scotland, the Angus Community Planning Partnership Board.

7. ANGUS COMMUNITY JUSTICE OUTCOMES IMPROVEMENT DELIVERY PLAN (ACJOIDP)

The ACJOI Delivery Plan has been developed using the first three stages of the 5 stage process described in the Scottish Government's Guidance for Community Justice Partners. This has been achieved by producing a Community Justice Profile to identify the issues, and developing a logic modelling approach to identify areas for improvement.

The following CJ Stakeholders have been involved in developing the delivery plan:

- Statutory Partners
- Community and Voluntary Sector Partners
- People with convictions and their families
- Victims and witnesses of crime
- Representative from business organisations

Stakeholder involvement in the plan is detailed in the Participation Statement featured in Appendix 2.

The Angus Community Justice Partnership will be responsible for overseeing the delivery of the CJ Outcomes Improvements Plan, and will report directly to the Angus Community Planning Partnership Board and Angus Council's Policy and Resources Committee. The delivery of the CJ Outcomes Improvement Plan which will be linked to the CPP Local Outcomes Improvement Plan and local community planning will be delivered during the period 2017 -2020.

Lead agencies /officers will be appointed to take forward specific developments detailed within the plan and working groups will be established, as necessary, to enable partners to work together to achieve better community justice outcomes for individuals, families and communities (see appendix 3 for Lead Officers roles / responsibilities)

The ACJOI Delivery Plan will be informed by the following principles:

- People must be held to account for their offences, in a way that recognises the impact on victims of crime and is mindful of risks to the public, while being proportionate and effective in preventing and reducing further offending.
- Re-integrating those who have committed offences and helping them to realise their potential will create a safer and fairer society for all
- Every intervention should maximise opportunities for preventing and reducing offending as early as possible, before problems escalate
- Community Justice Outcomes cannot be improved by one stakeholder alone. we must work in partnership to address complex issues
- Informed communities who participate in community justice will lead to more effective services and policies, with greater legitimacy
- High quality person-centred and collaborative services should be available to address the needs of those who have committed offences, their families and victims of crime.

November 2016

1. Background

The Community Justice (Scotland) Act 2016 was passed by the Scottish Parliament on 11 February 2016 and received Royal Assent on 21 March 2016. The Act makes provision about community justice, including establishing a new national body to oversee community justice and introduces requirements in relation to the achievement of particular National and locally determined outcomes.

In the Act, community justice is defined as:

- Giving effect to bail conditions, community disposals and post-release control requirements;
- Managing and supporting people in the community who have been arrested, been given an alternative to prosecution, been made subject to a relevant finding (such as acquitted by reason of insanity) or received a conviction for an offence, to desist from or reduce future offending;
- Preparing people who are in prison or detained for release, including facilitating the provision of relevant general services they may need immediately following release

The Act establishes Community Justice Scotland as an Executive Non-Departmental Public Body. Its Main functions will be:

- To promote the national strategy;
- To monitor, promote and support improvements in performance, particular in relation to nationally determined outcomes;
- To promote and support improvement in the quality and provision to meet the needs of people, making best use of resources;
- To promote public awareness of the benefits of community disposals and of managing and supporting people who are convicted of offences within community in order to reduce re-offending

Community Justice Authorities will be abolished on 31 March 2017. During 2016/17, Community Planning Partnerships (CPPs) will assume responsibilities under the new model in transition. On 1 April 2017 direct funding will be returned to local authorities and the incorporation of community justice responsibilities under the CPP will begin in full.

2. Purpose

The Community Justice Partnership is established to oversee the community justice objectives as outlined in the Act.

The Community Justice Partnership will provide a framework to enable the monitoring and reporting of community justice outcomes in Angus. Within this overarching objective the Community Justice Partnership will:

- ensure that the appropriate information and support is available to support partnership working arrangements
- maintain effective liaison with Community Justice Scotland and Angus Community Planning Partnership ;
- provide advice and guidance to the Angus Safer Communities Forum , the Executive Group for Public Protection and the Chief Social Work Officer on the commissioning, strategic direction and integration of service delivery to facilitate the delivery of services to people with convictions;

- provide advice and guidance as appropriate, to other strategic groups and bodies within the CPP in developing and maintaining services aimed at preventing offending;
- prepare and agree plans and reports required by the Scottish Government on the services and performance related to community justice;
- contribute to the overall Local Outcomes Improvement Plan (LOIP) plan and provide advice and guidance on how the LOIP best incorporates community justice outcomes and performance indicators;
- ensure that all community justice partners provide relevant performance indicators as agreed with the Scottish Government, Community Justice Scotland and local community planning partners.

The Partnership is concerned with people who fall within community justice; from the point of arrest through to reintegration back into the community from custody.

The Partnership will seek to support desistance from further offending and improve outcomes for people with convictions and their families, and victims and families of victims

From 2017/18, statutory community justice partners will be responsible for preparing, delivering and reviewing a Community Justice Improvement Plan for the Angus area. Within the plan, the Community Justice Partnership will ensure that the community justice partners;

- assess the degree of priority for improvement action against each common outcome for the Angus area;
- identify where there are additional locally determined outcomes;
- identify how to work together on the activities needed to achieve improvement;
- set out the actions the Partnership needs to carry out;
- produce an annual report on the progress collectively made towards the outcomes.

All work carried out by the Partnership will have particular regard to the key strategic themes as set out in the Community Justice (Scotland) Act 2016. Although currently in draft, the strategic themes are likely to be focused around:

- Empowering communities;
- Improving partnership, planning and performance;
- Improving access to services
- Effective use of interventions.

The partnership will also have close regard to the Local Outcomes Improvement Plans priorities and strategic objectives

3. Duty to Co-operate

The Community Justice (Scotland) Act 2016 places a duty on community justice partners and Community Justice Scotland to co-operate with each other. The Community Justice Partnership will provide the framework for co-operation in practice and will enable community justice partners to:

- share information,
- provide advice and assistance to each other,
- co-ordinate activities (and seek to avoid unnecessary duplication),
- fund activities together.

4. Membership

The membership of the Community Justice Partnership will be consistent with the requirements of the Community Justice (Scotland) Act 2016. Scottish Ministers are included as a community justice partner with the expectation that the Scottish Prison Service will represent Scottish Minister in carrying out certain functions under the Act.

The community justice partners are people within the Act who are considered to have functions in relation to community justice. They are:

- Angus Council
- NHS Tayside
- Police Scotland
- Scottish Prison Service
- The Scottish Fire and Rescue Service,
- Skills Development Scotland
- The Angus Health and Social Care Partnership
- The Scottish Courts and Tribunals Service.
- The Crown Office and Procurator Fiscals Service

Each statutory partner will be represented at senior officer level, ensuring that they are able to provide strategic leadership, make decisions and commit resources necessary to the work of the Partnership. Each partner will nominate a depute to act in their absence.

The voluntary sector in Angus will also be represented on the Community Justice Partnership, including Victim Support.

A community engagement and communication strategy will be developed to facilitate communities' involvement in the strategic planning, delivery and evaluation of Community Justice Services. Where considered appropriate or beneficial to the delivery of the Community Justice Partnership objectives, members may co-opt additional persons into group for a time period determined by the Partnership.

5. Chair and Vice Chair

The Community Justice Partnership will be chaired by the Head of Children and Young People, Angus Council. This will be reviewed after 2 years. The vice chair will be appointed from the membership by the Partnership

6. Work Streams and Sub Group

Where appropriate, the Community Justice Partnership will arrange for sub groups to be established to carry out specific pieces of work. The focus and membership of each sub group will be agreed by the Partnership and the Chair of the sub group will be responsible for the feeding back progress to the Community Justice Partnership.

7. Quorum

The Community Justice Partnership will be quorate for business when the Chair or Vice Chair and five or more other representatives of the Community Justice Partnership are present.

8. Accountability

The Angus Community Justice Partnership will sit within the Angus CPP structure with a direct reporting line into the CPP Board and the Executive Group for Public Protection.

The Community Justice Improvement Plan will also be submitted to Angus Council's Policy and Resources Committee and the Angus Integrated Joint Board. Performance reports will be submitted to Angus Council's Scrutiny and Audit Committee.
