Subject: 20mph speed limits

I do not withdraw my objection because I believe the blanket implementation of permanent limits is dictatorial without publication of data which supports each case. I fully agree that it is right to have these limits in the vicinity of all junior schools and probably academy schools as well. Other limits need to be carefully considered by councillors. The presumption of "well being for people" is far too vague and contentious. Surely the history of accidents must be relevant. Thank you for your reply.
