Foreword

As the Divisional Commander for Tayside, I am delighted to introduce our Angus Local Police Plan for 2023-2026. The plan outlines how we intend to deliver policing services over the next three years and highlights the outcomes we aim to achieve over that period.

Our plan is based on our local and national priorities and strategic outcomes, those of our partners and the views of Angus' communities on what matters to them. In the challenging environment we currently operate in, constructive partnerships and close relationships with our communities are crucial to ensuring that we can deliver successfully against the priorities highlighted in this Local Police Plan.

In Tayside Division we will focus our efforts on those who cause the most harm within our communities, whilst maximising opportunities to reduce offending and prevent crime occurring in the first place. With the support of our partners, we will promote the highest standards in public protection and ensure the safety of the most vulnerable within our communities. We remain committed to continuous improvement in order to provide the highest level of service to our communities. To do this we will use our local policing teams supported by specialist support from national divisions in Police Scotland.

This plan will remain flexible and adaptable to the changing needs of our communities over the next three years, delivering a service that provides trust and confidence.

We will report our performance against this plan through regular presentation to the Angus Council Scrutiny and Audit Committee.

OFFICIAL

I am proud to be the Divisional Commander for Tayside Division and look forward to delivering on this Local Policing Plan for Angus.

Chief Superintendent Phil Davison, Local Police Commander, Tayside Division

Introduction

Angus is located on the East Coast of Scotland. There are seven main towns in Angus: Forfar, Kirriemuir, Montrose, Brechin, Arbroath, Carnoustie and Monifieth.

Angus is now home to a diverse and multi-cultural community. The majority of the population is concentrated in and around these main towns however there is a significant rural population.

Angus has a varied geography that includes coastal areas facing out to the North Sea, prime agricultural lands, mountains and glens. There is also an extensive rural road and river network.

The current population is estimated at 115,820 (ONS 2020) with Arbroath being the largest town in Angus at 23,500 (ONS 2020). The largest age group in Angus is 45-64 (33,236 people) with the smallest age group being 16-24 (10,612 people) (ONS 2020).

Significant employment in Angus is provided through tourism, engineering and agriculture and the area is popular for sports including golf and skiing.

National strategic alignment

Since April 2013, the Police and Fire Reform (Scotland) Act 2012 has required Divisional Commanders to produce and publish a Local Policing Plan (LPP) for each local authority area.

The content and character of Local Police Plans are determined by Local Area and Divisional Commanders in negotiation with local authorities, who are each responsible for approving their respective Local Police Plan.

This Local Policing Plan for Angus is supportive of the priorities in the Angus Community Plan 2017-2030 and the local outcome improvement plan published by the Angus Community Planning Partnership. Outlined within this document are our priorities for policing and outcomes, which, when achieved, will contribute to the Community Plan and the strategic vision for Angus. These priorities and outcomes were identified through a number of sources and processes which include:

- Police Scotland Strategic Assessment 2022/23 for Tayside Division which details threats that impact on Policing at both Divisional and Local Authority level.
- Community consultation
- Angus Community Plan 2017-2030
- Police Scotland Annual Police Plan 2022/23
- Joint Strategy for Policing (2020) – Policing for a safe, protected and resilient Scotland

Information has also been obtained through direct engagement and community consultation including:

- Direct contact with victims of crime
- Consultation responses to Police Scotland's Your Police survey

OFFICIAL

- Consultation with locally elected members and community representatives
- Engagement with partners and local businesses
- Direct consultation with members of the public

All of these sources have provided critical information in identifying what is important to the diverse communities within A and as such we have structured our resources to meet these demands.

In this plan we will provide some context on our communities and the local authorities we work alongside, the consultation, considerations taken into account in forming the plan and finally the priorities identified and how we seek to address these in the coming years.

OFFICIAL

Police Scotland's strategic objectives

Our Vision | Policing for a safe, protected and resilient Scotland
Our Purpose | The purpose of policing is to improve the safety and wellbeing of people, places and communities in Scotland
Our Values | Fairness | Integrity | Respect | Human Rights

Local policing delivery context

The people and communities of Angus are served by officers who deal with a wide range of policing responsibilities, including anti-social behaviour, road safety and acquisitive crime (including motor vehicle crime, housebreaking, fraud and theft by shoplifting). Along with our partner agencies, local officers regularly assist vulnerable people in our communities, including missing people and people of all ages who may be at risk of harm.

The Local Area Commander has responsibility for the overview of the operating model and delivery of local policing on a day to day basis. This model remains locality based, with six police stations in operation in Angus. All officers are issued with mobile devices which allows them to carry out the majority of their role remotely, ensuring optimum policing presence in our communities.

The Local Area Commander has access to a vast number of local and national resources, including local Response and Community officers, Detective Officers (including those who are specialist in domestic abuse and sexual offences), Road Policing Officers, Mountain Rescue Teams, Wildlife Liaison Officers and our local Partnerships, Interventions and Preventions Team.

We also benefit from the dedicated and selfless work of volunteers, including Special Constables and younger members of our local communities who have joined our Police Scotland Youth Volunteers.

All our teams work closely on a daily basis with statutory and third sector partners, contributing towards our collective goal of maximising the positive difference we make to the people who live, work and visit Angus.

Governance and performance

Effective scrutiny and oversight are key to ensuring that policing retains the trust and confidence of the communities of Scotland. We pride ourselves on transparency and accountability and as such, have created comprehensive and robust arrangements for the governance of this plan.

The Scottish Police Authority (SPA) is the body with overall formal responsibility for scrutiny and holding Police Scotland to account for delivery of the priorities set out in the National Policing Plan. Tayside Division's performance against the national priorities is monitored centrally by the National Analysis and Performance Unit, who compile a wide variety of analytical products to support operational policing activity at tactical and strategic levels.

Performance in relation to the identified policing objectives and outcomes is monitored and reviewed at the Tayside Division monthly Tasking and Delivery Meeting.

Reports are also produced to allow scrutiny by the Angus Council Scrutiny and Audit Committee.

OFFICIAL

Equality, diversity and inclusion

Police Scotland promotes equality and diversity, both externally and internally, striving to exceed the requirements of the Scottish Public Sector Equality Duty.

Across Police Scotland we are committed to developing and promoting best practice in the advancement of our Equality Outcomes. In order to support this requirement, we embed equality, diversity and human rights in all of our strategies, plans and performance framework. Equality and Human Rights Impact Assessments (EqHRIA) are used to help us to ensure that policy and practices proactively consider the potential impact on equality and human rights. We will ensure that all of strategic plans and activities relating to delivery are assessed to a high standard using relevant evidence in a systematic and structured way.

A code of ethics was introduced in 2013 with the creation of Police Scotland and provides guiding principles that define how we perform our duties. The code of ethics sets out the standards we expect of all our employees and the standards that the public can expect to ensure we provide a professional service to all. Encompassing the values of the service and our commitment to human rights, the code is designed to help us provide positive outcomes and improve the safety and wellbeing of people, places and communities in Scotland. Police Scotland's values are;

- Integrity.
- Fairness.
- Respect.
- Human Rights.

Tayside Division is continually working to ensure that these values and the code are understood by all our officers and staff and are preserved in all of our decisions and actions.
