Emerging Issues :

FROM LAST TIME – We have obtained a stock of no cold calling door stickers from Trading Standards that we will distribute in the local area.

‘Coffee with a Cop’ was held at the Millennium Hall in June. Unfortunately this event was very poorly attended (only 1 person attended) and we are now reviewing whether to continue with these kind of events. Any feedback from the Community Council would be appreciated.

ACTION 4/5/23 – COMPLETE Stuart to raise a note of concern about Police

ACTION 4/5/23 – COMPLETE Keith/Stuart to add Neighbourhood Watch Scotland to Facebook

6/7/23 - Discussion around ‘Coffee with a Cop’ with the members of the public suggested people didn’t realise it was on, with discussions on how we might better publicise these sorts of events. The Coffee with a Cop event would have been the perfect opportunity to have many of the conversations that were brought up during the meeting (traffic speed; lack of traffic police monitoring speed in Muirhead especially on a Sunday morning with the motorbike issue, parking at schools; issues with a small number of teenagers).

Planning:

- 6/7/23 - The National Planning Framework 4 (NPF4) was launched across Scotland in February 2023. This was a major shakeup of all previous planning legislation and caused a number of bigger development projects to halt. The NPF4 obliges all Local Authorities, including Angus, to review their Local Area Development Plans (LADP). These are the documents that are used to determine planning applications on all scales. They set out development and infrastructure needs in each council area. They do this by determining a long term picture (up to 2045) and then breaking this down into ten year Local Area Development plans which are reviewed and adjusted every five years. You can find out details of this here: Development plan | Angus Council

Angus Council will now consider their Local Area Development plan which covers the next ten years. A feature of developing the a new LADP is that Angus Council will ask all the local landowners if they have parcels of land they would like the nominate for consideration for development. Normally these are relatively substantial pockets of land where the landowner may have ideas for developments themselves, or would be keen to sell these in the future. Typically they are put forward to support housing and employment in the area. Any landowner can put forward a suggestion for consideration.

Whilst this information is coming in, the Council will look at their entire region and consider what they need to support the community in the future. They are looking at very long term plans so they need to consider all sorts of things like the demographics, changes to birth rates, employment opportunities and needs for development. They do consider their neighbouring Council areas too. Lots of data and information is collected and considered.

They will consult with communities and gather information about what the locals feel are big issues for them, areas they have concerns or ideas for, and what they feel would enhance their experience of living in their city, town and villages.

At the end of the process, the Council will produce a new LADP which will show the areas designated for development, including the zoning meaning that it will identify the what would be allowed to be developed on each site.

Under the new NPF4, the emphasis on what is to be targeted has changed. Previously there was a lot about economic development but there is a much bigger focus now on decarbonisation, sustainability, and biodiversity. This fundamentally changes how planning will be evaluated in the future, and developers have to bear this in mind and respond appropriately with their new proposals.

Angus Council are developing their response to NPF4 now. It is not clear what their path is towards engaging with the community, but they are considering how best to do this. The MBLCC has agreed to contact Angus Council to understand more of the detail regarding their proposed process and to help residents identify when they can contribute and explain their views.

- 6/7/23 - ACTION – COMPLETE Rose to email Angus Council if they could advise the community about how they can engage and what they can do to shape development
- 6/7/23 - Nicola McCowan-Hill from Muir Homes provided an update on the Proposal for land at East Adamston Farm, Muirhead
 - Planning at East Adamston Farm, Muirhead – Following the introduction of NPF4 (explained above), Muir homes have revised their approach to developing the land at East Adamson Farm Muihead. The land is currently zoned as agriculture and previously they were consulting on the development of 90 homes on the land with other potential community uses on adjacent land. That consultation was halted with the instruction of NPF4. Muir Homes would like to present the land to the Council for consideration for zoning in the wider plan, and would like to look at a 30year development strategy for the site. Muir Homes have been carrying out technical assessments relating to planning and transportation and would like to update the Community with a view to holding a public participation event in the Autumn. Members of the public would like Angus Council to engage them about the Local Place Plan/Development Plan Scheme before Muir homes have their public participation event if at all possible. It was suggested that this should be held in late September from 2-8pm to enable as many people as possible to attend, review and consider the proposals and feedback any comments direct with the Muir Homes team.

- 6/7/23 - ACTION – MBLCC Event for Muir Homes to be considered for late September and event spaces to be reviewed.
